Episode 29, October 1, 2020, 3:00pm EDT

The SCOTUS Storm What's Next?

With the passing of Justice Ruth Bader Ginsberg, the future of the SCOTUS has ignited an intense political firestorm. At stake is the conservative–liberal balance of the court, and which president will appoint Ginsberg’s successor. Will it be President Trump in the last weeks of his current term, or the winner of the November election? Several nation-changing cases are already on the court’s fall docket. More importantly, the already-contested upcoming presidential election will almost certainly require the court to weigh in.

SCOTUSblog author Adam Feldman, ABA Journal SCOTUS reporter Mark Walsh, and other court experts join Edwin to navigate the turbulence.
